He has established diplomatic contacts, maintained relations and represented Boy Scouts of America with American businesses operating abroad, foreign embassies, key government leaders, heads of states and royal family members in an effort to provide sustained financial support and membership growth for World Scouting.

Scott has negotiated and established beneficial relationships with other National Scout Organizations around the world; and advised and supported Boy Scouts of America officers and leaders who are actively involved in international Scouting commitments, including Regional and World Scout Committees and subcommittees, and Regional and World Scout Foundations. His direct involvement in supporting the Interamerican Scout Region, especially in setting up the new Regional Office in Panama, has been especially noteworthy.

The new Secretary General will take office on 1st January 2013 at the World Scout Bureau Central Office.

Fifteen NSOs to be recognized for membership growth

One regional focus for the current triennium is membership growth where relevant studies have been undertaken over the past three years.

Following the first membership review workshop held in 2010 in Malaysia, the recent review in Macau captured the growth of membership of NSOs and recommended ways to sustain the strategies that worked well.

Before the Macau workshop started, the Membership Growth Sub-Committee met to review the criteria for recognizing NSOs with significant membership increase. The sub-committee identified two categories for recognition. One category is a group of NSOs that increased membership annually and the other is the group that implemented the Membership Growth Guideline in a remarkable way.
