Environment Education:

An advocacy and way of life

What are we doing as Scouts and leaders?

Citing what happened in Mexico City which was hit by a powerful earthquake, World Scout Committee member Janaprith Fernando asked this question to the participants to open the Environmental Education workshop that took place in Yapahuwa, Sri Lanka. During the workshop, participants gave a collective donation as a way of reaching out to the earthquake victims.

Creating a Better World

At this workshop, participants learned about the World Scout Environment Programme (WSEP) which offers tools, resources and initiatives to encourage Scouts around the world protect the environment. Other topics include Scouts Go Solar, Better World Framework and best practices of National Scout Organizations.

The workshop challenged the participants to learn whatever they can on the environment and apply them in their daily lives - as a way of life.

WSEP was discussed in depth and young people are encouraged to take day-to-day actions that can impact the world, instilling within them a strong sense of responsibility for the environment.

Aside from tree-planting, another outdoor activity was climbing the 300-foot historical rock ruins dating back to the 13th century.

Participants were thrilled, amazed, and in total awe as they visited an elephant sanctuary.

They witnessed the elephants bathing and playful. Interestingly, they learned innovative ideas how elephant dung can be transformed into various paper products, as well as elephant statues made of recycled elephant poo, and glue that could carry a man's weight!

Participants hailed from Bangladesh, Bhutan, Cambodia, Taiwan, India, Malaysia, Maldives, Myanmar, Nepal, Philippines, Singapore, Sri Lanka, Timor Leste and Afghanistan.

Supporting the event were WSB Youth Programme Director - Hany Abdulmonem, WSB Youth Programme Intern - George Botros, Eilif Wang from Scouts of China and Bernardo De Leon from Boy Scouts of the Philippines. The Asia-Pacific Region Youth Programme Director, Syd Castillo, coordinated the event.

Synergy between youth programme and Adults in Scouting

Synergy is the combined power of a group of things when they are working together, that is greater than the total power achieved by each working separately.

At the APR Workshop on Adult Support to Youth Programme, held on 21-24 September 2017 in Hong Kong, participants tackled the synergy between the Adults in Scouting and Youth Programme policies by exploring the different roles of adult leaders. Moreover, the aim of the two policies is to support the Mission of Scouting.

World Scout Committee (WSC) member Peter Blatch discussed in his presentation that the quality of Youth Programme, and the impact that Scouting will have on society, depends on the quality of adult leaders we have.

A total of 43 participants came from 16 National Scout Organizations (NSO) in the Asia-Pacific Region, and Denmark from the European Region. Scout Association of Hong Kong (SAHK) hosted the workshop.

Joining WSC member Peter Blatch were Youth Adviser to WSC Mori Cheng, Asia-Pacific Regional Scout Committee Chairman Paul Parkinson, APR Adult Support Sub-Committee Chairman Dale Corvera, APR Programme Sub-Committee Chairman Dev Raj Ghimire, APR Adult Support Sub-Committee members Elston Hynd, Antong Shahrudin and Wilson Lai, RSC Consultant Kirsty Brown and SAHK Training Commissioner Dr. Mak, Wai-ming.

SAHK Chief Commissioner NG Ah-ming served as Workshop Director with SAHK International Commissioner Hubert HO as Workshop Coordinator. From the Asia-Pacific Support Centre were Thian Hiong-Boon, Syd Castillo and Fatima Amido.

APR Staff focuses on Occupational Safety and Health

Occupation Safety and Health (OSH) was the topic of this year's staff development workshop of the World Scout Bureau Asia-Pacific Support Centre held in Baguio City, Philippines from 11 to 13 September 2017. Local experts in OSH explained why and how the management of health and safety in a workplace is very important. Along with protecting employees, OSH also increases productivity when employees are healthy and happy.

Adding fun in the workshop was the Art of Storytelling by Joel Arthur Tibaldo who shared tips on how to make a good story, particularly on digital storytelling. At the closing, each group presented their short video clip, showing some basic techniques learned at the workshop.

OSH expert speakers were Gilbert Rafer, Engr. Marivic Empizo, Dr. Anne Bandonill, and Catherine Cruz.

Another similar activity will be organized to train more MoP Coordinators and expand the MoP platform in Thailand.
